Cross Cut Filled & Honed Collection

Travertine is a natural stone filled with tiny pores or holes. Some of those voids can be large enough to catch dirt and grime or are even large enough that you would feel them while walking on the tiles. That's why it's common to fill the holes with a special grout during the honing process. This creates a completely smooth surface and makes the stone suitable for indoor areas.

Vein Cut Collection

The vein cut travertine tile collection that we offer makes the most stunning surfaces in the home interiors. What makes vein cut so beautifully, is the uniqueness of the patterns on each tile. The Vein-Cut occurs when the block is cut in the same direction of the natural veining of the stone, as a result have defined tile with parallel veins. The differences between each tile, its resemblance to wood, and the brightness of the polished stone make this cut is one of the most demanded in the market.

Limestone Collection

Limestone tiles and pavers are made of natural stone, and it's one of the most suitable options if you want to avoid artificial materials for your flooring. Limestone is a material that can be used to decorate any space. Tiles made of limestone have beautiful, natural textures since they are made from minerals that naturally settle on the earth's surface over thousands of years. The tiles can be used inside or out to give a finished, beautiful look to any space. This highly durable stone adds sophistication to any space with muted earth tones and dozens of styles.
